Can be fully customised by a web developer.

Link directly to products on your website

For businesses with online retailing.

“It’s a very simple system, all the customer has to do is enter their details and the right batteries are there in front of them.”

“During our first month using the widget we had more enquires than the three months prior combined!” Peter Gorinsweigh, Bush Tyres

Benefits to your business

Better customer service

By offering the ability to find the right battery, customers are able to easily source all the information they require from your website without using third party sites or search engines.

More enquiries from your website

Retailers already using the widget have reported steady increases in the number of customer enquiries they receive from their website.

More selling power

If requested, the widget can display the Yuasa RRP price, so your customers can see the value of the prices your business offers.

Increase in sales

Before a customer buys a product, they like to be certain they are ordering the right part. By using the Yuasa Battery Lookup Widget your customers will be more confident they have the correct battery so are more likely to buy.

More website visits from new customers

By having the widget on your site you are more likely to attract visitors and potential customers. This in turn can drive your ranking in search engines and could make your business more visible online.

Advantage over competitors

Having a battery lookup function on your website will give you an advantage over competitors who don't have this.
